

WESTCOASTNEWS

SATURDAY, AUGUST 30 | 2014 | CITY EDITOR BEV WAKE 604.605.2744 | BWAKE@VANCOUVERSUN.COM

Malcolm
Parry

PETALS TO THE METAL: L.A.-based designer Chloe Trujillo showed her silk scarves, many with flower or skull motifs, during one of Vernard Goud's fashion parties at Club 560 recently. It's the Seymour Street joint that, when it was the A&B Sound record store, sold skull-shattering albums by Metallica. That band's rehearsals kept its 11-year bass player, Robert Trujillo, from backing wife Chloe on her gig here.

Chantal Benz, left, and Bree Woodill, right, joined long-haired L.A. designer Chloe Trujillo while showing off her line of silk scarves at Club 560.